Style notes:

Assumption is that users will have at least a basic understanding of legal and case law terminology? To make the content more inclusive and accessible, we should consider adding explanatory text – this can be done contextually so it doesn't have to replace the specialist terminology.

A lot of the H1 text across the service is centre aligned – for example, <https://caselaw-1a2e4edc7635ba5982f242.herokuapp.com/ewhc/admin/2021/3290>. Is there a reason for this or can we make this text left aligned for better readability?

<h1> Heading	Find case law	Find case law online or Find judgments online or Find judgments and tribunal decisions	'Find case law' by itself may not be specific enough. 'Find judgments online' is consistent with the H2s and H3s elsewhere across the service. 'Find judgments and tribunal decisions' is more explanatory than 'case law'.
